

Bountiful Bowls: Imagine a World Without Hunger

Inspired by God's gifts and nature's bounty, Indianapolis religious, educational and art institutions have come together to raise public consciousness and address the problem of hunger. The bountiful bowl is our symbol of caring and sustenance. Artists will create original artworks that express their interpretation of the bountiful bowl. These works will be publicly displayed and auctioned with the proceeds provided to Gleaners Food Bank. No hungry person should have an empty bowl.

We invite all artists to participate in this event by submitting a bowl as we imagine a world without hunger.

Artist Guidelines and Regulations

1. Artists are asked to submit a "bowl" as interpreted by the artist. This bowl may be utilizable or displayed art in any medium.

Suggested categories:

Ceramic	Textiles	Painting (size limited)
Glass	Metal
Collage	Wood

2. All donated artwork becomes the property of Bountiful Bowls upon donation. A donated item will be considered a donation by the artist.

3. Artists are allowed to assign a financial value to the piece. This value will be considered for the auction, but the recipient organization makes no representation and shall not be considered to have given any tax advice as to whether the donated item qualifies for a charitable contribution on the part of the donor for Federal Income tax purposes. We are a 501c3 tax exempt non-profit and therefore any donations are tax deductible to the fullest extent of the law.

4. Deadline to confirm participation and submit application is August 1, 2008. Artwork needs to be delivered to Beth-El Zedeck no later than October 2, 2008 at 5:00 p.m. Donated artwork will be displayed in the community October 13 – November 6 and will be auctioned off at an event on November 6.

5. The art pieces will be promoted throughout the community this fall through various media. Artwork will be displayed in numerous sites across the city, including at partner venues. There will also be an event program.

6. We reserve the right to accept or decline a submission after review by the committee.

This program is made possible through the Sidney Maurer Memorial Feed the Hungry Fund of Congregation Beth-El Zedeck, in partnership with Christ Church Cathedral, Eiteljorg Museum, Gleaners Food Bank, Herron School of Art, Indianapolis Art Center, Second Presbyterian Church, St. Luke's United Methodist Church, SS Peter & Paul Cathedral and the Tibetan Buddhist Cultural Center. Our Bountiful Benefactors are Fresh Market and Vine and Table. This program is part of Spirit & Place Festival.
